The Indian Pitta (Pitta brachyura)

The Indian Pitta is a resident of our country. It spends its summer in central India and Deccan, whereas in winter, it travels to the south. This bird is generally found in thick forests.

Did you know that the Indian Pitta is called the Navranga or the one with nine colours? But this drawing from the exhibition does not include all of them.

How many colours can you see?

Colour the Indian Pitta, and use any nine colours of your choice!
